A ROUND OF TALK.

THE OLD-TIME ROSE.

You may talk about roses, Your Marchen and your Bride, Your Giant and your Sunnet, And many more beside; But to me, the old-time June rose, Is the sweetest, rose I know, The fragrant, old-time June rose Of the sweet old-time ago.

I know it is old-fashioned, And has long been cast aside, The old-time fashioned June rose, That was cherished once with pride; But to see one is a pleasure, And to own one is a treat, The old-time fashioned June rose, So fragrant, rare and sweet.

—Maud W. Todd.

Plans out—The plans for the new St. Catherine building are all made out and estimates are being made, and the building is to be constructed on the various classes of work and fittings which are to go into the building. The structure will have a frontage of 255 feet and will be three stories besides the basement. It will have three wings running back from the front and every detail of convenience and comfort will be observed in the construction of the new monastery and academy. The estimated cost is about $100,000 and the estimates and plans will be submitted immediately to the proper authorities for approval and then the work will be pushed with all possible haste. A side-track will be run from the railroad line to the spot which will greatly facilitate matters in transporting building material to the place. A great effort will be made to have the academy ready by September first.

GOOD SHOWING.—A good idea of the growth and importance of the Rural Free Delivery service in this county can be gathered from the figures of the first year's business of the four routes running out of Springfield. The report as made by Postmaster W. A. Waters shows that during the twelve months ending with March of this year that there were handled by the four carriers a total of 141,900 pieces of mail, divided as follows: 44,551 letters or first-class matter, 53,724 newspapers or second class matter, 10,659 packages or third class matter, 2,992 parcels of merchandise, 174 registered and 136 money orders. The smallest business was in April 1903 or the first month when only 2221 letters were handled and the largest business was for the month of March 1904 when 5,015 letters were handled or thus showing an increase of more than a hundred per cent. The increase in other classes of mail matter also shows correspondingly as 9,245 newspapers were handled during last month against 4500 during the first month of the service. There are now 273 mail boxes on the four Springfield routes besides the new Williamsburg route which has close to a hundred boxes established. The petitions which are in for the two new routes out of Williamsburg and Mackville have not yet been acted on but it is probable that they will be established. Strange to say however, protests have been made against these routes. The source of the opposition estimates as usual it is said from the keepers of country stores and postoffices who fear the effect the mail routes will have on their own business. How any farmer or any private citizen living along a mail route can conscientiously object to having his mail brought to his door is a problem yet to be solved, yet some of them sign protests—usually let us hope under a misapprehension of facts. The R. F. D. is for the benefit of the farmer and it will benefit him if he will allow it.

STRANGE.—It is strange what a terrorizing effect the report of the presence of a small pox case will have on some people. There are hundreds of good sensible people in this county to-day who since the little scare which has gone out about the disease here would not come within a mile of the town for pay. It is hard to believe that sensible people will be so extreme about such a thing but such is certainly the case and it is clearly shown by the very small "crowds" in the town at present. The truth is that a person from the county could come into town and attend to any business with as much safety from exposure to the contagion as if he remained at home for the reason that the few cases here were promptly isolated and there is absolutely no danger of anyone contracting the disease by being present on the streets or in any of the stores or offices of the town. But it is a "hard matter" to convince some of these people that when the true condition of affairs becomes known that confidence will be restored and the local merchants will again get busy and make up for lost time. After all the scare which is often made greater than it should be by exaggerated reports, is something of a worst feature of a smallpox outbreak.

"DO IT TO-DAY."

The time-worn injunction "Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it to-day." That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it to-day—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At C. J. Hayden's drugstore.

Trouble Averted.

"Just in the nick of time" a little boy was saved by Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now sound, and well." Everybody ought to know it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and all Lung diseases. Guaranteed by C. J. Hayden, Druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. All bottles.

Scientific Abdominal Cure.

"I have been subject to sciatic rheumatism for years," says E. J. Waldron of Wilton Junction, Iowa. "My joints were stiff and gave me much pain and discomfort. My joints would crack when I straightened up. I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and have been thoroughly cured. Have not had a pain or ache from the old trouble for many months. It is certainly a most wonderful balsam." For sale by C. J. Hayden, Druggist.

OBSERVATIONS.

The Stringtown Parson Indulges in a Few Remarks Concerning His Wanderings

MR. EDITOR:—Since our last communication from the city of Stringtown, we have been some what engaged, looking after our flock, seeing if it were in the right pasture, and if properly sheltered from the wind and storm.

Our experiences have been many, and of piteous variety ranging through all sorts of gradations, rushing oftentimes into climates that sent chill to the spine and sweat (not perspiration) to the brow. Some of these experiences were due to the peculiar characteristics of the Stringtown flock; others to the mysterious seen and unseen with which we are here surrounded.

The "peculiar characteristics" may be summed up in the following striking statement: "Sheep and Goats." Those who have had dealings with the last mentioned animal can appreciate the difficulties and dangers attending him who, in a moral sense, carries the shepherd's staff. The Master was not wasting time, nor the letters of alphabet, when he spelled out the word "goat," and appended it to the western end of some cognomens.

How would this strike you, Mr. Joe Rev. Smith, G. O. A. T. (This is not a "slang" at the Smith family but merely an illustration) while it has not the euphonious swing of such titles as, A. M., B. S., D. D., nor would it be so attractive, yet just think of the cases where the appellation would fit beautifully! There he is in the choir, in the Sunday school, in the great congregation; in fact, he's everywhere, into everything, and always a "bottle!" He refuses absolutely to be shoo'd. About the only thing one can do is to climb to a place of safety and like the woman whose goat was chasing the book agent, cry out, "Go it, B-I-I-I-I-I!" By thus encouraging the sheep in this innocent sport, punctuating the encouragement with clubs and stones—we may force him, finally, to say, as the man did who ran against the house, "I believe I'll stop!" Then the sheep part of that respective flock may walk by in the waters of quietness, and lie down in pastures of tender grass.

Mysterious speaking of the seen and unseen here and hereabout, why don't you come, and see for yourself? The scenery bordering the Stringtown pike, the people, the town itself will all be interesting to you. The only thing that mars the beauty of the scenery is an ungainly pole, pulled right down across the highway! However we shall not worry about this—as contrast only tends to make the beautiful seem more beautiful. This shall be our comfort as we pay toll and drive on!

The old Stringtown school house, which has been so much admired and looked up to, has become puffed up with pride, and goes to putting on airs! Weather boarding, new windows and paint are responsible to a great extent for the spoliation of this once noble character. But despite all this pretentious dressing up, one can tell by the droop in the shoulder, the paralytic twist of the body that she stands on the verge of dissolution. The careworn, crippled old grocery Curious Bird Killed.

Henry Weathers, of Solitude, last week killed a very large bird, the like of which so far as can be learned, has never before been seen in this part of the State. From tip to tip of wings it measured six feet and three inches; from tip to tip of bill to toes, five feet two inches; from tip of bill to tail, five feet, four inches. The plumage of the bird embraced six different colors. It generally was of dove-color, mixed in wings and tail with brown, black, yellow, white and red. The top of the head was white with white stripes running down neck. The bill was golden yellow; tail short; toes, four jointed and slightly webbed; eyes large and yellow. The bird was not at all wild and would perch upon trees. Mr. Weathers presented it to Mr. W. J. Ash, who stuffed the skin. It is regarded as a great curiosity and is attracting much attention.—Hardstone Standard.

Wood & Campbell Guaranteed to Refund Money if Hyomel Fails to Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh.

It is no uncommon to see a medicine advertised as a "guaranteed cure." Investigation usually shows that the guarantee is made by someone known far, hundreds of miles away.

The guarantee, though, that comes with Hyomel, is entirely different. It is made by Wood & Campbell, one of the most reliable drug firms in this section. They advertise that if Hyomel does not cure the worst case of catarrh, they will return the money without any question or argument.

No business house in Springfield has better reputation for square dealing than Wood & Campbell, and when they guarantee that they will refund the money if Hyomel fails to cure catarrh, no one has any question as to the agreement being lived up to, both in the spirit and letter.

Hyomel is very easy and pleasant to use. Just insert it through the urethra, it comes with every effort, every breath will bring recovery so much the nearer. It kills all the germs of catarrh troubles in the air passages of the head, chest, and lungs, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane, and is the only natural cure for catarrh.

The complete outfit costs one dollar, and whatever of Hyomel has been obtained for fifty cents. Do not let a slight catarrhal trouble develop into one that may be serious and chronic. The Hyomel at once, remembering that you are a human being, when you try Hyomel on Wood & Campbell's offer of "No cure, no pay."

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

When you buy a cough medicine for small children you want one in which you are sure that the ingredients are pure and that it will not only relieve but cure. You want one that is unquestionably harmless. You want one that is pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these conditions. There is nothing so good for the coughs and colds incident to childhood. It is also a preventive and cure for croup, and there is no danger whatever from whooping cough when this is given. It has been used in many epidemics of that disease with perfect success. For sale at Hayden's Drugstore.

Fine Residence.

Mr. Henry Edelen, the well known distiller, is preparing to build an elegant home during the coming summer. His architect is at work upon the plans and specifications, and when they have been completed, work will be commenced upon the new structure. The proposed house will be erected upon the site of the present house which will be torn away. It is Mr. Edelen's intention to erect a large and handsome brick house, fitted with all modern conveniences. The house when finished will be one of the finest and most elegantly appointed residences in this section of the State. The location is a most desirable one, and Mr. Edelen will spare no trouble or expense to make his new home a model of elegance, comfort and convenience.—Nelson Record.

WILLING TO HELP.

An Old Seaman's Scheme to Win Honor For a Favorite.

An amusing story of an old seaman on one of the United States cruisers in the north Atlantic squadron. He was a specimen of what seafarers call a "hard-boiled" sailor. He had a warm place in his heart for a young cabin boy who had been kind to him in many little ways.

"One day a landlubber fell over the rigging to the water, and as he could not swim he would have been drowned but for a young officer who sprang in after him and held him up till assistance came."

"That's a nice thing to have, a letter like that," said the old seaman, "but you ought to have one."

"I don't quite see how I can get one," laughed the cabin boy.

"Well, see here," said the old man eagerly. "Tomorrow night I'll be in the main cabin, fussing with something or other, and I might fall in, and you could jump after me."

"That would be very good of you," said the cabin boy, "but you see, I'm not a good swimmer by any means."

"Ho, that's no answer," said the old seaman. "I'll hold you up till the boat comes."

CRACKED VOICES.

A Lack of Muscular Control in What Causes the Break.

The pitch of a voice, the degree of its volume, the number of vibrations per second of the vocal cords, all these, in their turn, depend on the length, size and degree of tension of the cords, which increase in length with the growth of the larynx.

One of the deepest notes heard from the greater length of the cords, has only eight double vibrations a second, while a soprano note, on the other hand, has nearly 1000 such vibrations in the same time.

The size of a lady's larynx is, roughly, that of a woman's, but when the pitch is lowered, the larynx grows rapidly and the vocal cords become elongated nearly in the proportion of three and a half to two.

The cartilages by which their tension is regulated also share in this growth, as is seen by the position of the so-called "Adam's apple."

Now, all these parts do not increase equally rapidly; hence the muscular control which must be very exact, is rendered uncertain and the voice is said to "break."

A similar change takes place in the case of women, but very much less in amount, and a further compensation in the formation of the upper part of the larynx serves to disguise the effect.

Too Much Larynx.

"Do not feel at that," remarked the freddie critic, "that realism can be carried too far on the subject of the voice."

"Yes," replied the tragic actor, with a sigh. "The last man I was working for did it. He wanted to pay us all in for stage money!"—The Cincinnati Star.

Smallpox Outbreak.

It is reported here that Mr. Tom Mudd is suffering with a severe attack of smallpox at Fredricktown. Mr. Mudd was in Bardonia on the 18th, and returned the following day to Fredricktown where he had rooms over Mr. George Alvey's saloon. Monday, the 20th, he developed a case of smallpox and the little village was thrown into a state of consternation. The patient was removed to a building a short distance from the town. He is receiving good attention and his recovery is the most assured. Mr. Mudd is a traveling agent for the McCormick Machine Co., and is well known here.—Standard.

THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1904

We are authorized to announce the name of
is a candidate for the office of Sheriff Washington county subject to the action of the Democratic party Election November 1905.

The war news from the far East has narrowed down to accounts of the movements of the immense numbers of troops of the two armies to occupy advantageous positions. The two nations are either making gigantic bluffs at each other or there will some day be one of the biggest battles in history.

Louisville is having an epidemic of labor strikes. The iron workers, bricklayers and job printers are demanding more wages and shorter hours.

The old fight in the Republican ranks in Louisville between Sapp and anti-Sapp forces has been renewed.

FILLS OUT THIN CHEEKS

"Mi-o-na the Only Natural Way to Gain Firm, Solid Flesh" Says Druggists Wood & Campbell

There are altogether too many pale, thin and emaciated people who manifestly do not have the proper weight. The last two years, pale, thin people have increased in numbers rapidly. Emaciated faces and general thinness can be overcome by the use of Mi-o-na, the flesh forming food that Druggists Wood & Campbell are selling in such large quantities. You who have thin, pale cheeks can be fat, plump, strong, hearty, with the rosy glow of health if you will but use Mi-o-na.

Wood & Campbell one of the most reliable drug firms in this section, are selling Mi-o-na at 50c a box under a positive and absolute guarantee to refund your money if it does not fill out thin cheeks and make the user plump, rosy and healthy.

Mi-o-na does all this in a perfectly natural way. It mingles with the food you eat, aids assimilation, restores the digestive organs to action and puts the whole system in proper physical condition. Those who use Mi-o-na do not risk a penny when they buy it. Druggists Wood & Campbell will give a written guarantee with every box to refund the money if it does not increase flesh, give freedom from stomach troubles and restores health and strength. Go to their store today and get a month's treatment to be used at their risk.

Shook the Court.
A writer in "Law Notes," speaking of the late John MacMahon, says: "MacMahon's style was polished, his utterance a little thick, but he was entirely devoid of humor. His hearing at times was not of the best, and for that reason he thought it was the best policy to agree with any remark that might be made by the judge before whom he was appearing, even though he did not happen to hear what had been said. On one occasion he was appearing before a master of the rolls, who thought that MacMahon was arguing rather elementary law for such a court as this. 'You are speaking as if I were a mere trow in the law,' Mr. MacMahon, said the master of the rolls testily. 'Quite so, my lord,' said counsel airily, proceeding with his argument as before and to regardless of what the judge had said.'

Queer Customs in China.
A feature in the life of the Celestials when at home, says the author of "Society in China," is the number of itinerant craftsmen who earn their livelihood on the street. Almost anything from the mending of a broken shoe to the most elaborate one dressing may be obtained of one or another of these street-travelers. Blacksmiths carry the implements of their trade about with them, the bellows so constructed as to serve also the purpose of a tool box and a seat when "off duty." If a man's jacket or shoes need repairing he may call a passing tailor or cobbler and the man will stop for the time while waiting with the services of an itinerant helper.

Speaker of Parliament.
It is not generally known that the speaker is always "Mr." even to the highest officials of the House. No one approaches him with a hat on, and if an M. P. passes him in the street the M. P. makes obeisance. In official situations to dinner are commands which involve the surrender of previous engagements and are not "accepted," but "obeyed." At his house he is usually looking very dignified in a black velvet suit, and M. P.'s, former M. P.'s and peers make their bows and pass on—London Times.

GOT AS GOOD AS HE GAVE.
How Philanthropic Corcoran Was Answered by a Woman.

The late W. W. Corcoran, the millionaire philanthropist of Washington, who gave to the city the magnificent art gallery which bears his name, was very fond of telling how he was once overmatched by a wealthy maiden from whom he desired to purchase a piece of property.

Mr. Corcoran was the owner of the Arlington hotel, at the corner of West Main and H street. Adjoining the hotel was a vacant lot, which was a handsome brownstone mansion, owned by the maiden lady. The lot upon which the house was built extended back to I street, a distance of four hundred feet, and abutted on the rear of the hotel property.

W. W. CORCORAN.

Why we tremble.

The Nervous System Superintended by Cold, Fear and Anger.

Cold, by stimulating the sensory nerve endings in the skin, produces a corresponding irritation in the brain motor centers and by contracting the blood vessels in the skin produces a temporary excess of blood in the brain. This interferes with the steady flow of nerve force to the muscles, and a spasmodic action of these nerve centers produces the trembling due to cold.

Of trembling from fear or anger during this explanation: "Men during long generations have endeavored to escape from their enemies by flight or violent struggling. These cause breathlessness and trembling of the muscles. Whenever there is a mental agitation, why or how these emotions affect the cerebro spinal system through the mind in this way is not known."

The First Use of Napsin.

A French writer who evidently was conservative and did not welcome the napsin kindly records with scorn: "The napsin is a kind of opium, it is thin and fastened in the back, as if one were going to be shaved. A person told me that he wore his hat that he might not see his beautiful hair."

It was a difficult matter to tie the two corners in the back and it is said that these originated our expression for straitened circumstances, "hard to make both ends meet." This custom led to the habit of the table waiter, carrying a napkin on the left arm.

Barbarous Treatment of the Women.
The Irish have a barbarous custom of destroying twins. A woman who gives birth to twins is regarded as something accursed, and the children are taken from her and thrown into the bush to perish, while she is proclaimed an outcast and driven from the village. To hold up two fingers to an Irish woman is to offer her the greatest insult possible. They are very superstitious. They worship idols of wood and iron, which are regarded as protectors to be propitiated at various periods, and various charms among all the tribes.

What "Charm" Really Means.
The word "charm" is from the Latin "charisma." Originally it meant incantation. To "charm a person" is to bewitch him. In "Julius Caesar," act III, scene I, "I charm you," seems to mean of adjure you. When we speak now of a charming woman, we mean simply that she sings an incantation to us, but there is a pretty figure of speech in our use of the word. We mean that she has the same command over us as if the incantation were sung and we were bewitched.

A Fair Test.
Briggs—I believe the time is approaching when every question will be submitted to arbitration and all people will agree. Griggs—Well, if you wish to be understood, just make an attempt to settle a dispute between the owner of a house and a tenant—Brooklyn Life.

The First.
Miss Sharpe—I am twenty-four birthday tomorrow. Miss Oldage—Indeed! And isn't it singular? So do I. Miss Sharpe—No, but I celebrate mine for the first time.

The Lady of the House.
Canavass—Is the lady of the house but Domestic—Yes, there is two of us. Why was she so named?

Never put money in the mouth. This is a most dangerous habit.

RUTS

The walking sick, what a crowd of them there are. Persons who are thin and weak but not sick enough to go to bed.

"Chronic cases" that's what the doctors call them, which in common English means—long sickness.

To stop the continued loss of flesh they need Scott's Emulsion. For the feeling of weakness they need Scott's Emulsion.

It makes new flesh and gives new life to the weak system.

Scott's Emulsion gets thin and weak persons out of the rut. It makes new, rich blood, strengthens the nerves and gives appetite for ordinary food.

Scott's Emulsion can be taken as long as sickness lasts and do good all the time.

There's new strength and flesh in every dose.

We will be glad to send you a few doses free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a tablet is on the wrapper of every bottle of Scott's Emulsion.
